

Introducing the new RBdigital app & website

- Your digital magazines, audiobooks and/or eBooks presented in one app
- RBdigital has replaced both OneClickdigital and Zinio for Libraries brands, so library members will only have to remember one brand and download one app instead of two.

What this means for library members...

...who use the OneClickdigital app

- You will receive an update notification on your device
- You will notice the app icon change to RBdigital
- You will retain all history and bookmarks in the new app

Existing Users: Login with your OneClickdigital username and password

New Users: Before opening the app, create a new account on the RBdigital website
<http://conwy.rbdigitalglobal.com/>

...who use the Zinio for Libraries app

- You will receive an in-app notification that the app is changing and that you should download the new RBdigital app from your app store
- You can continue to use the Zinio for Libraries app for a time
- All history will be retained in the new app but you will need to re-download magazines

Existing Users: Login with your Zinio for Libraries username and password

New Users: Before opening the app, create a new account on the RBdigital magazines website <http://www.rbdigital.com/wales/service/magazines> .

...who access ebooks, audiobooks and digital magazines

Existing users: Login to the app with your OneClick digital OR your Zinio credentials

New Users: Before opening the app, create a new account on the RBdigital website OR the RBdigital magazines website

- The username and password for both resources need to match
- Two profiles, one for each resource need to be set up within the one RBdigital app
- To add the second profile, select 'YOUR PROFILES' under the menu within the app – choose 'add profile'

- Select country of origin
- You must enter the email registered with Zinio (not the username)
- You will now be presented with two profiles = Conwy Libraries (for ebooks and audio), Wales (for digital magazines)
- Switch between the two profiles to access either ebooks and audio, or digital magazines
