Gwyrche Castle and the surrounding land at de ruins has been a de relict site for over 30 years.

The woods and de ruins and surrounding land have been free to enter, unhindered, unbarred, without prohibitive signage and to use "As of Right" for de relict site have lived in Abergele. Local user evidence shows and will show evidence and criteria that a significant number of inhabitants of the locality have indulged "as of right" in lawful sports and pastimes on the land for a period of at least 20 years.

The pathways and land connect to roads, bus stops, party areas, and to the beach via a footbridge and promenade at Penarth. These connect to National Cycling routes, the Coastal path and a number of paths and commercial access.

The land was freely used from any point until 2020. when Entry points were closed with temporary fencing; which they said would be removed in Jan 2021. They didn't!! They have now put up permanent fences and gates some not even on their land
