★ 60 years of 'Un Nos Ola Leuad'! ★

This year marks the 60th anniversary of the first publication of 'Un Nos Ola Leuad' by Caradog Prichard – one of the most prominent and far-reaching Welsh language novels.

Since its release it has been translated to nine languages, had film and stage adaptations and remains on school syllabuses.

BBC Cymru Fyw are asking - what's its appeal, 60 years on?

We would love to hear your thoughts or reviews – you can send them to digital.library@conwy.gov.uk

You can borrow 'Un Nos Ola Leuad' and 'One Moonlight Night' from any of our libraries!

HELLY ACTON

We had the wonderful opportunity to ask Helly Acton, author of The Shelf, some questions about her debut!

Find us on Facebook to read the whole interview!

We have copies of The Shelf available to borrow in all of our libraries. What would you say to our borrowers before reading this book?

Don't read the back cover. It'll make Chapter One much more fun! Also, to take the story with a pinch of salt. The Shelf covers important topics, but it's meant to be a fun, lighthearted read. While the ultimate message is a serious one, the story and setting shouldn't be taken too seriously.

ASD AWARENESS AND ACCEPTANCE!

April is Autism Spectrum Disorder awareness / acceptance month. Here is our selection of books on ASD, books with ASD representation or books written by ASD authors!

Why not reserve them on our online catalogue and further your understanding of ASD!
